

EVENING BULLETIN.

"HEW TO THE LINE, LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY."

VOLUME 2. MAYSVILLE, WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 7, 1883. NUMBER 66.

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.

"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, Mrs. ANN O'BRIAN." 148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. Wilds of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALL, of Rochester, N. H., writes, June 7, 1882:

"Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality.

It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.

A Silver Discovery.

For years past there have been rumors, some well authenticated, of an enormously rich deposit of silver somewhere in the Pigeon River district. The exact location of this deposit was known only to one or two Indians, amongst whom a superstition prevails to the effect that if an Indian should disclose to a white man the location of mineral the Manitou would infallibly kill him before the expiration of a year. This superstition, in connection with the fact that at least two of their number, who had promised to show white men the vein, had died or disappeared before they could do so, prevented anybody from making use of their knowledge of the deposit. However, the last Indian who was in the secret, confiding in his own son, informed him where he could find the vein, swearing him at the same time to eternal secrecy, and then went to join the others in the "happy hunting ground." The son, who is nominally a Christian and above superstition, revealed the secret to a French Canadian named Oliver Deanneau, in consideration of the sum of $200 in silver coin. Deanneau had previously married the old man's daughter and had lived for two years with the bride in hopes of securing this very information. He went at once to Prince Arthur's landing and interested Gen. Wilde, of New York, a mining speculator who owns property in that neighborhood, and gave him a one-fourth undivided interest in the discovery in consideration of his paying for the locating and survey of the vein. This Gen. Wilde did without delay, the survey being made by W. H. Furlonge, of Prince Arthur's landing, who is well and favorably known by all interested in mining property on the north shore.

Mr. Furlonge writes to a friend that he considers the deposit enormously rich; that the silver in view on the back (or top) of the vein is alone worth $10,000, but that the real value of the location can not be definitely decided until they have sunk shafts in the vein. He estimates that whilst they were running the lines round the location the men employed by Gen. Wilde secured for him some $2,000 worth of native silver and ore; in fact, sufficient silver to pay cost of land at $1 per acre (Canadian Government price for mining lands) and cost of survey. The vein averages eight feet in width, and is a true fissure vein and carries native silver, black sulphurets, silver glance and blende wherever exposed or cut. Lumps of native silver have been on show at Thunder Bay, which will weigh from two to four pounds each of pure silver. He regards this as equal to the best find ever made at Silver Islet, and says that if the property is properly worked there is a sure fortune for every one connected with it. The deposit is first visible at a point due south and three miles distant from the Whitefish River, where it falls into the Kaministiquia River, eighteen miles from its mouth, being about twelve miles northeast of Cloud Bay, and about twenty miles east of Pigeon River, and in the same range of mountains which contain the well-known mine worked by W. A. Kindred and Gen. Baker, and where valuable locations are owned by John McGuire, A. Ebner, Jeff Daniels, J. McPherson, H. C. Kendall, A. S. Chase, and John Lightbody.

The discovery finally proves the valuable character of mineral lands in the Pigeon River district, and as Gen. Wilde has opened a good wagon road from Cloud Bay to his mine, no doubt many prospectors will visit that country again next summer, and it is to be hoped that those who have so long believed in the true value of their property will be rewarded richly for their patience. Already some few contracts for disposal of interests in contiguous localities have been entered into, but the owners of property in the Pigeon River district, although not desiring to shut out enterprise, think that if the discovery proves one half as valuable as it now appears to be that they have a pretty good thing to hang on to.

A railroad route has already been surveyed from Prince Arthur's landing to Pigeon River, and a charter will be granted to a company by the Dominion Government during the coming session. The road will pass close to the mine, and the projectors hope to form a company to continue the road through Minnesota to Duluth, and thereby receive the old St. Cloud & Pigeon Railroad land grant.—Duluth Bee.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Marian Harland, the novelist, is writing a history of Virginia.

—Mrs. M. S. Pitman (Margery Deane), during her recent stay at Budapest, in Hungary, was tendered a banquet by the Authors' and Artists' Club, at which complimentary addresses were made, flattering toasts were drunk, and patriotic songs were sung.

—A man at Simmons' Gap, Va., is living with his ninth wife. The patriarch is eighty years old, has fifty-three children, and at a recent reunion over three hundred of his descendants were present. He does not know all of his children, and makes no effort to keep up with his grandchildren.—Chicago Times.

—The will of the late Edward Clark, of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, leaves $50,000 to Williams College, $10,000 each to his agents, Bunyan and Meeker; $50,000 to two nephews, $250,000 to his daughter-in-law, and a like sum to each of her four sons, and the remainder of his property, estimated to be of the value of $30,000,000, to his son Alfred C. Clark.

—McDonald Clark, known years ago in New York as "the mad poet," and who died in the Blackwell Island Lunatic Asylum, left among other items the following lines concerning his funeral: "I hope the children will come: I want to be buried by the side of children. Four things I am sure there will be in heaven—music, flowers, pure air and plenty of little children."—N. Y. Graphic.

—Ex Governor Abner Coburn is the richest man in Maine. He is worth almost $7,000,000. He lives near Skowhegan, and he drives about the village in a two-seated phaeton showing evident marks of usage. The horses are strong and clean-limbed but their trappings and grooming evince a disregard of appearances. There are no heirs to Mr. Coburn's property but two nieces.—Boston Transcript.

Late Plowing.

Fall and winter plowing has many advantages. Among them may be mentioned pulverization of the soil and destruction of insect and vegetable life. The turning up of the earth in the fall affords an opportunity for the frost to work through the soil. This, as every one knows, loosens the ground by separating clods and hard places. It raises the ground up. How often have farmers in clay soils seen their wheat roots raised out of the earth and when dried blown away. The atmosphere does good to the winter plowing. It tempers it, so to speak, and makes it better for the spring crop. And then grass and weed seeds and roots are destroyed and turned into mold instead of pests the coming year. Eggs of insects, also, and larvae are destroyed by myriads in the freezing cold.—Kansas Farmer.

The flood in Licking river has proved very disastrous. The country around Pleasant Valley is under water and for some distance the turnpike is submerged. The Washington Mining and Manufacturing Company's mill is surrounded by water and persons in the neighborhood have been obliged to remove from their dwellings. Some stock is reported to have been drowned.

The Legislature of Ohio is considering the subject of adulterated foods and medicines. It is represented that liver and kidney complaints so common and destructive to human life, are largely due to the use of sulphuric acid in the manufacture of sugar and syrup. It is also stated that quinine pills are extensively adulterated, and that many other medicines in every day use are not to be depended upon as they are very far from being compounded of pure drugs.

GEN. WM. N. PENDLETON, who died recently at Lexington, Va., was before the war rector of Grace Church in that city. He left the pulpit to command a battery in the service of the Confederate States. From "Stonewall" Jackson's command he stepped up to take charge of all the artillery of Gen. Lee's army, and the music made by the guns at Gettysburg was that of Gen. Pendleton. After the surrender at Appomatox he again became rector of the Lexington Church.

MR. GARLAND'S bill to encourage the holding of a Cotton Exposition 1884, provides that the exposition be held, the time and place to be designated by the Executive Committee of the National Cotton Growers' Association, under the management of a board of thirteen persons to be appointed by the President on the recommendation of the association and subscribers to the expenses of the exposition, who are to co-operate with the Board of Commissioners, consisting of one from each State and Territory, to be appointed by the President on the recommendation of the Governor of the State or Territory. The title of the exposition is "The World's Industrial and Continental Exposition."

Power was born March 1, 1811, and until about the beginning of the late war was connected with river interests. He built and commanded the steamers Science, Sadie Robinson, Monsoon and Fashion, and was also a commander of other vessels during the time he was engaged on the river. His many friends in this neighborhood will learn of his death with regret.

MR. F. B. RANSON, dealer in boots, shoes, etc., and one of the principal business men of Maysville, on Monday made an assignment to Mr. Charles E. Tabb for the benefit of his creditors. In the matter of the arrest of William C. Clarke, formerly a paper dealer in Chicago, at the suit of Campbell, Smith & Co., of New York, paper dealers, for deceit and fraud, a motion was made some time ago before Judge Donahue to vacate the order of arrest, and the order was sustained. Rev. J. W. BULLOCK will preach at eleven o'clock.

A SHOOTING affray occurred at Myer's Station, Monday night, between George Buchanan and James Watkins.

THE Bertha Welby company arrived from Portsmouth this morning by the steamer Fleetwood and are registered at the Central Hotel.

MISS BERTHA WELBY is the daughter of the venerable Henry O'Reilly, the champion of the Masons during the Morgan affair many years ago.

JUDGE WALL advertises elsewhere that he has for sale $15,000 of Montgomery county, Ky., bonds, of $1,000 each. They will

CAPTAIN JOHN W. MILAM, commanding the McCreary Guards, of Frankfort, accidentally shot himself at Lexington, Monday evening, while handling a pistol. The wound is in the fleshy part of the left thigh and was so serious as to prevent him going with the troops, Tuesday.

MISS BERTHA WELBY, who is to take the leading role in Elliott Barnes' new play
"One Woman's Life," at the Opera House this evening, is said to be the most beautiful woman on the American stage, and withal a most pleasing and fascinating actress. Don't fail to see the play.

At a meeting held February 5th, by the German Relief Society, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President—Jacob Miller,
Vice President—John C. Dinger,
Secretary—Henry Dorsch,
Assistant Secretary—John Cambles,
Financial Secretary—D. F. Bendel,
Standard Bearer—G. Schatzmann, Sentinel—Geo. Landgraf.

The State troops left Lexington at eight o'clock Tuesday morning with Neal and Craft. The Winchester Rifles joined them at Winchester and the Cero Gordo Guards at Mt. Sterling. They also received cavalry horses at both these places. The command, it was expected, would arrive at Grayson by three o'clock in the afternoon.

We learn that Judge G. S. Wall has been appointed agent for the American Colonization Company, of London, Eng., and that his design is to locate the sons of reputable Englishmen with our leading farmers with the view of their becoming practical farmers and permanently locating among us. Mr. Botta, of Fleming county, has one of the young men, and he is highly pleased with him. The young men come to work and learn, and our farmers would do well to secure them.
Judge Wall will give full information to any one desiring it.

BY TELEGRAPH.

CONFLICT APPREHENDED.

Great Crowds Awaiting the Arrival of the Troops at Grayson.

GRAYSON, Ky., February 6—1. P. M.— The indications now are that there will be a conflict between the military and the people. The latter are decidedly opposed to the troops coming here. The Town Trustees have closed all the saloons and appointed an extra police force.

The military will probably arrive about 3 o'clock, and large crowds are already gathered about the Eastern Kentucky Railroad Depot, who in their excitement, may fire upon the troops. The excitement in town is great. A slight rain is falling and the ground is frozen hard.

Every precaution has been taken to avert a conflict, though it may occur at any moment. If so the military will be unable to cope with the force, against them and they will be wiped out quickly. The signs are ominous.

A DESPATCH from Grayson to the Courier Journal says:

Matters are all arranged for the trial, the accommodations, though inadequate, are much better than was to be expected. Jaffer Mill Tyro has been unremitting in his efforts to improve the court house and surroundings, and the place looks bright, clear and attractive.
The court room has been enlivened with new paint and provided with new lamps in case the court should desire to hold night sessions. It is probable some arrangement will be made to admit to the court room only those who have business, as the space for spectators is very limited. This afternoon the grand jury was empaneled, and Judge Brown delivered the charge.

HE CAME OUT VERY STRONGLY, instructing the jury on law and order. He referred to the fact that Neal and Craft trial would take place during the session of the grand jury, and there was a possibility of its being accompanied by some disturbance. Should such be the case, he charged the grand jury that they should take prompt notice by indic-ting the participants. Whilst the Judge believed the grand jury would do its duty, he said must be upheld. "Must be upheld," he added, "though every militia man in Kentucky to be sacrificed. If Gov. Blackburn can not do with the force at his command, he has the right to apply to the United States, and will do it. The law must be enforced, and if it can not be done by moral suasion, then by force of arms. Neal and Craft are about to be tried and the question is whether law and order or anarchy shall prevail and soldiers are to come.
They bear no ill-will toward any one, and are subject to the orders of this court. The people must submit to the presence of soldiers and let no mark of disrespect be shown, and it is not whether Neal and Craft are guilty, but whether law and peace shall be sustained."

are now entertained that he is bordering on insanity."

Last autumn when "the frost was on the pumpkin; and the fodder in the shock." The writer came to Murphysville to visit relatives, expecting then to remain but a short time.
After getting acquainted with some of Mason County's citizens, whose hospitality and friendship we enjoyed very much, we were induced to remain in their midst a greater part of the winter. Although being in the country, having bad weather and rough roads to contend with, we do not regret having decided to remain. It was at this time we noticed that the BULLETIN had no correspondent at this place.

Having had no experience as an itemizer, it was with a trembling hand and fear of the critics' eye our first letter was written. From week to week it has been our endeavor to give the baps and mishaps of this section of the heritage being careful at all times about getting too personal, not wishing to offend anyone. If those who have found exceptions feel offended we are sorry for it, but the conflict was not commenced by us, neither was a hit thrown out to anyone, but some were eager and grabbed at the bare hook. Our "collar-box" is packed, and ere this meets the eye of the public we hope to be counting the telegraph poles between here and Hoosierdom, of which place the writer is proud to be a native. If there are still some remaining who would like to resort to the pen as a source of amusement, though a few miles lie between, we will try our utmost to make it pleasant for them. Thanking the proprietors of the BULLETIN for the space occupied by me in their valuable paper, I remain your humble servant with Milord and the Chipmunk.

When a live Lord Mayor or his son goes into the Rocky Mountains to hunt the fleet but ferocious sage hen, or to chase the graceful buffalo over the plateau, there is usually a picnic for the rough, untutored cowboy and miner, who witness the performance.

The great man from England comes to the wild, wild West to hunt, bringing with him all the various trappings peculiar to cover shooting in a land where the hunting is as full of excitement as a combat with the blood-thirsty setting hen of our own dear native land. He comes into the mountain fastness of Wyoming to kill the antelope, the bison and the buffalo, armed with everything in the gun family from the dueling pistol to the elephant gun, and his clothes are enough to make the angels smile. If he happen to have a pair of peculiarly shaky and dubious legs, he advertises the fact by wearing knickerbockers and a pair of shoes that loom up through the eternal silence like a boil on the brow of beauty.

The remarks he makes from time to time are so strange and so foreign to the home of Old Meander-up-the-Gulch that no author has yet successfully imitated them.

Some time ago the son of a sure-enough Lord Mayor from over the sea came to the Powder River country, in Northwest-ern Wyoming, for the purpose of bearding the jack-rabbit in his jungle and slaughtering the beautiful but treacherous sandhill crane. He wore his good clothes and filled a Union Pacific train with his luggage. Wherever he went the public schools along the route were dismissed and the children were given a holiday that they might go and see the illustrious scion of the Lord Mayor and his retinue.

Arrived at the scene of the great conflict all was excitement and bustle. His Nibbs, the gory slayer of the grizzly (in his mind), unpacked his elephant gun and mountain howitzers, his blunderbusses and his court plaster. He then proceeded to skirmish through the tall timber after the game. Stevens, his valet, was sent ahead with instructions to keep his eye peeled and shout "Mark, bison," "Mark, jack-rabbit," "Mark, coyote," or whatever he struck, warning his Nibbs in time so that should the animal turn out to be something belligerent, he could skin out for camp with great enthusiasm; and on the other hand should the game turn out to be crippled or a confirmed invalid, he could kill it and have it stuffed to carry home and put up in his ancestral halls, to be exhibited to nations yet unborn.

Finally a big bull buffalo dashed down on them from an unexpected quarter and scattered the company right and left. It required an hour or two to get over the fright brought on by this little episode and then his Nibbs sailed into the unfortunate Stevens in good shape.

"Why did you not mark, you ass?" "I was so upset I forgot it, me lord."

"See that you mark hereafter then, or I will scatter your brains all over Wyoming with an elephant gun."

The party moved on with their guns cocked and pointed first to the right and then to the left till suddenly the valet yelled out:

"Mark, me lord!"

There was an exciting moment of expectation and then his Lordship asked:

"Mark what, you ass?"

The man couldn't give the name of the animal, but an investigation showed it to be a chipmunk.

There are a good many peculiar features about English hunting in this country, and they appear doubly funny to the untutored but observing mountaineer.—Bill Nye, in Detroit Free Press.

—A young gentleman who was pledged to take a young lady to a party remarked to her on the afternoon previous to the event that he was going home to take a sleep, in order to be fresh. "That's right," she replied; "but do not sleep too long." "Why?" he asked. "Because," she answered, "I do not want you to be too fresh."—Philadelphia Sunday Item.
